Hundreds turn out to pay last respects to family killed in fire

The flag on the Andover common flew at half mast this week. And in the adjacent Congregational Church, hundreds of friends and relatives gathered Tuesday to comfort one another on the deaths of Randy and Leslie (Bean) Deans and her two boys, Bronson and Brock Lindeman. The family of four died in an early-morning fire Saturday, which gutted the house they were renting on East B Hill Road, in Andover, just a couple of blocks from the center of town.

From the kitchen window of the Hutchins residence, next door, the charred remains of the house stand quietly—a portion of the building caved in, the window glass melted from the extreme heat that prevented anyone from reaching the family that had been sleeping upstairs. "The dog barking is what got us up," Sharon Hutchins recalled. Her husband Bob, a volunteer fireman, looked out, saw the Deans house on fire and called in the alarm.

The time was 1:55 a.m. Saturday, according to Andover Fire Chief Kerry Merrill, who said his firefighters were on the scene in five minutes.

But the fire had too much of a head start. "The whole downstairs was completely involved," the chief said, "and (fire) was going up the walls on the outside."

Mrs. Hutchins, who rushed outside with her husband after he called in the alarm, said, "It was just a matter of minutes and it was gone."

A friend who worked with Randy Deans at Andover Wood Products had been sleeping on the sofa in the living room downstairs and awoke to find flames around him. He ran outside and called to the sleepers upstairs. "He kept calling 'Duck,' said Mrs. Hutchins. (Randy Deans' nickname was 'Duckie.')

The friend, Wayne Melanson, told firefighters where his friends were, but the firefighters couldn't get through the flames downstairs and couldn't put ladders on the walls because of the flames licking up the sides of the building.

The 16 Andover firefighters, using three engines and assisted by four men with air packs from the Rumford Fire Department, first set about knocking down the flames downstairs. Then they were able to put ladders up to the second floor on the north side of the house. Flames were still girding the southern wall, outside the bedrooms where the family had been sleeping.

Firefighters first took out the two boys—Bronson, 3, and Brock, 2, from their bed. Rescue personnel immediately began giving them CPR and continued to do so as they were taken to Rumford Community Hospital. But there were never any signs of life, the chief said.

Firefighters next removed the body of Leslie Deans from her bedroom. Later, they found Randy Deans at the foot of the stairs. There was speculation he had continued on Page Three

Deadline Friday for winter tourism tabloid

The deadline for all advertising in The Citizen's winter tourism tabloid is this Friday, Oct. 18.

Thirteen thousand of the tabloids will be mailed directly to skiers from Providence, R.I., to Portland, while the bulk of the tabloids will be distributed through ski shops north of Boston. There will also be enough set aside to distribute to guests of local inns, condos and restaurants.

The winter tourism tabloid will be printed Nov. 7, in time for initial distribution at the Boston Ski Show.

Perham back in jail —pleads innocent at arraignment

Joseph (Jody) Perham was captured without incident as he slept beneath a cottage on Tuell Town Road, in North Paris, last Wednesday morning. He was arraigned that afternoon on formal indictments handed down by the county grand jury, which had been in session.

At his arraignment he pleaded innocent to two counts of attempted murder, three counts of assault, one count of arson and one count of escape.

Superior Court Clerk Donna Howe told The Citizen she will not set a trial date for 30 days from the time of arraignment—until Mr. Perham's court-appointed lawyer, Craig Turner, has had time to file any pre-trial motions. "Probably it would be December, more likely January or February," before Mr. Perham would come to trial, Mrs. Howe said.

Sheriff's deputies were able to capture the fugitive, who had escaped from the county jail Sept. 22, after receiving a tip from a Farmington man who had given a hitchhiker matching Perham's description a ride from Shagg Pond, Woodstock, to Trap Corner, West Paris, a week ago Saturday.

The Farmington man told authorities the hitchhiker had said he was going to North Paris. Knowing that a friend of Mr. Perham—Kevin Gibbs—had a cottage on the Tuell Town Road, deputies investigated the area a week ago Sunday, saw a note signed "Joe" and last Tuesday got a search warrant in order to enter the cottage on Wednesday.

When they arrived Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, they found Mr. Perham still asleep in his sleeping bag under the house. He offered no resistance after he was awakened.

Oxford County Sheriff Alton Howe said Mr. Perham later told him he had originally planned to head for Bethel after his escape, but wound up staying in the West Paris/Woodstock area. He spent a couple of nights under an old school bus somewhere, the sheriff said, and spent some time at Shagg Pond, plus a lot of nights in the woods. He slept in a sleeping bag he retrieved from a camper he keeps in West Paris.

Sheriff Howe added that Jody Perham told him, "He meant no harm to anyone. He just wanted a last look at the outdoors, thinking he would be going away for quite awhile."

PUMPKIN TIME: Youngsters from the West Paris Universalist Church conducted the fourth annual pumpkin sale at Emery's, on Rte. 26, last Saturday. Becky Hardy, of Bryant Pond, was a good customer. "I'm just going to admire it," she said of her perfectly shaped pumpkin. "I'm not sure if I'll cook it or carve it." She liked it so well, she went back and bought another. Money made at the sale—and at the flea market and bake sale that was handled by adults of the church—will go to the support of the church. The pumpkins are grown by church members in their gardens, using seeds distributed by the church in the spring.

Area towns to fight Auburn incinerator rate increase proposal

Representatives of 13 (of 20) towns that dispose of their solid waste at the Auburn incinerator met at the Poland town office yesterday to set up a united front against the 100 percent rate increase in tipping fees proposed by the Auburn city manager last month. Greenwood Selectman Norman Millett represented the Greenwood-Woodstock transfer station.

"The general consensus of the group was that a group approach would be best," Poland Town Manager Richard Chick told The Citizen. "So what we've done is set up a negotiating team."

The negotiating team is composed of representatives from six entities that take waste to Auburn: New Gloucester, Gorham, Rumford/Mexico, Mechanic Falls, Norway and Raymond.

The group hopes to meet with the Auburn city manager the beginning of next month.

Mr. Chick said, "The tone of the group is positive. Some increase may be in continued on Page Three

Telstar staffer tagged as top science teacher

Telstar science teacher Tim Kersey has been named one of 52 science teachers nationwide to receive the Presidential Award for Excellence in Science Teaching for 1985. The teachers were selected on the basis of classroom performance, student progress and professional endeavors.

The awards, which carry a grant of $5,000 each to be given to the teachers' schools, are given by the National Science Foundation, which also selects 52 mathematics teachers nationwide. The Maine mathematics teacher selected was Herbert Hoppe, of Falmouth High School.

The awardees were selected from every state, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. Twenty-four educators and researchers in science and mathematics make up the national selection committee which makes the final Presidential

Gary Wing wins in Woodstock; Stowell offers $$

At the special town meeting in Woodstock last night, an unusually heavy turnout of voters elected Gary Wing as selectman to fill the unexpired term of the late Frank Bean. Mr. Wing will serve until March 1987.

The crush of voters wanting to have a say in the election issue spilled out into the hall, and two ballots were needed to decide the issue.

On the first ballot, with 134 votes cast, Mr. Wing received 58, George Hooper 54, and Jerry Healey 22. On the second ballot, Mr. Wing received the majority needed to win, garnering 70 of the 132 votes cast. Mr. Hooper received 55 and Mr. Healey received 7.

The other articles on the warrant were passed with minimal discussion, with Paul Hillquist as moderator. First, voters decided to discontinue the road from the West Paris town line to the Summer town line and regard it as a private way.

Then they agreed to appropriate $14,000 for a used 1970 Champion grader to replace the old grader. The old grader had been rolled over and damaged and would have required more money in repairs than it was worth.

Finally, it was decided to take $218.50 from surplus for liability insurance to cover the town's new 1-ton truck.

Following the meeting, the selectmen informed the voters that the new owners of Stowell had approached town officials regarding turning over to the company the town road that provides access to the mill. In return, the selectmen reported, Stowell would give the town $20,000, which happens to be the amount the town lost on back taxes when the mill changed hands.

Selectman Cliff York suggested that voters think about the offer, but warned them that the offer was, so far, merely oral. "We want to get a written proposal," he said.

Award selections.

Begun in 1983, the Presidential Awards program is designed to identify outstanding junior high and secondary school science and mathematics teachers who can serve as models for their colleagues. The program is also designed to provide increased status and rewards for demonstrated professionalism so that high quality individuals will be encouraged to enter and to remain in teaching.

Mr. Kersey and the other Presidential Awardees will be in Washington, D.C. Oct. 22-25 to receive their awards at a White House ceremony.

Too much grandstanding

In the past week we have seen our national leaders playing to the grandstand instead of carefully devising policy. First we had the Reagan Administration and the Republican-controlled Senate push through a scheme to forcibly balance the federal budget by 1991. The President, blaming the Democrats for the nearing $200 billion federal budget deficit, said the legislation was necessary to get the deficit under control.

This is the same man, who in 1979 when he was running against Jimmy Carter, said he would have the budget deficit (which was then under $50 billion) down to zero by the end of his first term, if he were elected. Well, he was elected, and we heard no more of deficit reduction until now, in his second term.

The legislation that breezed through the Senate looks good to unwary constituents, many of whom have applauded their senators' determination to take a stand against red ink. But, in reality, they have taken no stand at all. The stand will have to be taken down the line, when legislators will be fighting for their pet programs against an administration determined to continue pouring larger percentages of the federal budget into military programs. Under the legislation, military contracts will be spared from budget cuts, as will social security. What will be left for cutting will be social and economic programs.

Moreover, a budget can be balanced by increasing taxation as well as by reducing expenses, which is the other alternative we can expect from this meaningless legislation. What is needed is the political will on the part of our legislators to stand fast against wasteful military spending.

While it has been shown that those countries that spend less of their GNP on military spending have faster-growing economies, the federal government continues to increase the amount of GNP going to the military, causing huge budget deficits. These budget deficits, according to national business leaders who met last week, cause the dollar to have an inflated value against foreign currencies, which makes foreign imports cheaper for Americans and makes American exports more expensive for foreigners.

But, instead of dealing with this basic problem, our leaders in Washington, the Maine delegation included, have been grandstanding again, setting import restrictions. This will have the effect of making imports more expensive for American consumers and will do nothing to make American exports less expensive. The balance of payments will not improve, and the consumer's purchasing power will decline. More far-sighted legislation would provide re-training for workers in industries that cannot compete with foreign producers.

Finally, in the realm of grandstanding, we were treated to Ronald ("Rambo") Reagan brandishing the big stick against Egypt—one of our few friends in the middle east. U.S. Navy fighter planes forced an Egyptian commercial jetliner to land in Sicily so that Palestinian terrorists on that plane could be brought to justice.

The goal of bringing to justice the Palestinian pirates who took over the Italian cruise ship Achille Lauro and killed an American tourist on board is certainly justifiable. But diplomacy should have been given more of a chance to achieve that goal. Obviously it was diplomacy that forced the government of Tunisia to not allow the Egyptian jetliner to land there. Further diplomatic pressure could have been brought against Egypt to prosecute the terrorists.

Instead, by playing to the grandstand and jumping to the military option, we have weakened our diplomatic clout throughout the Mediterranean region.

A great power has a lot of strength short of military force. We must learn how to use ours.

Not enough pre-planning

Now that the lights are on again throughout the region served by Central Maine Power, the utility company should take a hard look at its contingency plans for dealing with storms.

It took over a week for CMP to get customers back on line after Hurricane Gloria, and many thousands of customers found their food rotting in warming freezers. As reported in The Citizen last week, CMP was slow in bringing in repair crews from out of state. In contrast, Massachusetts communities had crews from Maryland in as soon as the storm had passed, working with local linemen to repair downed lines.

Also, CMP did not begin calling in its workforce until after the storm had passed. In the future, vacations should be cancelled before the storm arrives and crews should be put on standby.

Better safe than sorry

The Town of Woodstock last year allowed its sports insurance to lapse, placing itself in a risky situation had a Little Leaguer or Colt League player been seriously injured.

As things turned out, there was an injury to one boy, but he was treated and released at the hospital and the expenses that were borne by the town were only about $75.

Selectman Cliff York says he would like to see a policy that would pick up expenses not covered by a family's own insurance, if the family had insurance. He believes such a policy can be found and he hopes the Recreation Board will present the problem to the Budget Committee. So do we, before a serious injury has serious financial implications.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I did something yesterday that I should have done last year—visit the Railroadiana Museum on Railroad Street. But it was a special visit in that Ed Quinn, whose collection of artifacts and memorabilia are on display, spent 45 minutes explaining the significance of many of the items. From the stack of the ill-fated west-bound steam engine which collided with an east-bound train on Christmas Eve 1916 near Gilead, to the message hoops used to pass messages to the trains that didn't stop at the station, the history which that collection represents is something we citizens in Bethel should never let go of.

Ed's biggest concern is that the youngsters of this town may never know the significance of the Grand Trunk Railway as it relates to not only town history, but to the state and New England as well.

I am sure the town has paid tribute to Ed on numerous occasions for giving us the wherewithal to ensure that we do not forget what the Grand Trunk meant to Bethel. I just want to throw my hat into the ring with all the rest and say thank you to Ed for his efforts.

I hope someone in town takes the initiative to learn first-hand from Ed Quinn so that the oral history surrounding the railroad continues to be passed along.

4th county conference scheduled for spring

The first planning meeting for the next Oxford County Conference was held on Monday evening at the conference room of the Oxford County Jail, Paris. This conference, which will be held next spring, is the fourth such conference to be held in Oxford County. Cathy Newell, director of Adult Education in SAD #44 serves as the conference chairman.

The idea of a county conference came into being back in 1983 when it was decided that there is a great need for solutions to many problems that the people of Oxford County are being confronted with today.

Some of the topics that were discussed at Monday's meeting that were suggested for Conference IV included: economic growth, unemployment, crime, domestic crisis, housing, the economics of the elderly, and general assistance in general. It was suggested that the theme for the County Conference IV could be "Rural Crisis: Economics in Oxford County."

It was decided to further investigate the need for employment and training. Mention was made of several interesting speakers who could be invited to assist with the conference. A special effort will be made to ask people from area agencies to work as a planning group for the conference, including members of the clergy, municipal officials, business women, hospital staff, and many others.

Others who attended the meeting were: Jakkie Giese, a consultant from Bethel; George Emmertson, chief deputy of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department; Wendy Pollack, from the Oxford County Extension Service; Ginger Kelly, representing Women in Business; Richard Pollack, of Tri-County Mental Health, Rumford; Lorna Pendleton, Child Abuse and Neglect Council; Constance Allen, of Oxford County Community Services; Judith Green, Oxford Hills Adult Community Education Director; and Michael Naylor, from the Oxford County Extension Service. Anna Henderson, representing the Oxford County Municipal Officers' Association was unable to attend.

The next planning meeting will be held at the Oxford County Jail Conference Room on Nov. 4, at 9:30 a.m.

Five injured in Rte. 26 accident Saturday night

A single-car accident on Rte. 26, in Bethel, sent five people to the hospital Saturday night.

Driver Bruce Farrar, 32, of Bryant Pond, lost control of his car as he was driving northbound towards Bethel, just south of Blake Hill. He drove his car into the ditch on the left side of the road. The car hit two trees and rolled over several times, according to police.

One of the first people to arrive at the scene of the wreck said he smelled alcohol. Alcohol containers were found inside the car—a total wreck—after it was taken to Gaudreau's Repair.

Driver Farrar was listed in critical condition earlier this week at Stephens Memorial Hospital, where he had undergone surgery.

Treated and released from Stephens Memorial were Jeremy Farrar, 6 (the driver's son); Bert Leonard Jr., 38; Leroy Buck, 25; and Leroy Buck Jr., 7, all of Bryant Pond.

Responding to the accident were the Bethel Rescue squad, volunteer firefighters, Bethel and state police.

fallen down the stairs. All had died of smoke inhalation, according to the medical examiner.

The report of the state fire marshal stated the cause of the fire was "accidental disposal of smoking materials." Merrill added, "We believe it started in the living room."

Mr. Melanson, the friend who had been sleeping on the living room sofa, authorities heard and the Deanses had up until 1 a.m. playing cards.

The fire marshal noted there was a smoke detector in the house, neighbors thought there might have been one and it had been taken down by Deanses as they packed up to move. Married just three weeks earlier, the couple was going to move the family to a new trailer they were going to at Andover Wood. In the meanwhile, they were going to move in with R. Deansis' parents—Helen and George Deansis, of Andover. They were supposed to move out the day of the neighbor Hutchins said. They already drained their waterbed.

The Deanses had moved into the home on East B Hill Road in the spring, owner, Kenneth McKenzie, who had been in Andover before, returned from home on Long Island, N.Y., to survive damage earlier this week. The convicted attached barn of the building is sound, although the attached was charred and there is smoke damage. The apartment in the converted barn was vacant at the time of the fire.

At Sunday services in the Congregational Church, Rev. Marjorie Church preached a sermon on "Why, God, Why?" She said there were no easy answers.

Afterwards she said, "It's not just Deansis' tragedy; it's an Andover tragedy."

She added, "Being a small town, you don't have other things to block it. You walk around the common, it's always see that house."

"When something like this happens, you don't get over it—you just learn to live with it a little at a time."

Neighbor Sharon Hutchins said she hopes the owner tears down the charred house quickly, and removes the planks the boys had carved and left on the lawn. "I still see two little blonde-haired kids with tails hanging down," she said.

In looking back on the tragedy, Chief Merrill could see no way the outcome could have been different, the fact that the house flamed so quickly. "The men did a superb job," said. One firefighter, Rufus Rich, for over, was taken to Rumford Hospital for heat exhaustion and smoke inhalation. He was released Sunday.

He also had high praise for the woman who served coffee throughout the night, and thanked Mrs. Belange, opening the Akers Store.

CHARRED RUINS is all that remains of the house on the East B Hill Road in Andover that had been home to the Randy Deanis family. The family of four perished in an early-morning fire last Saturday. A friend who was spending the night survived. The state fire marshal said the fire started from a cigarette butt.

doors, thinking he would be going away for quite awhile.

"He said he might have turned himself in after a few weeks."

Jody Perham's father, Joe Perham, of West Paris, said his son ran from the county jail because he feared for his life. "He said he didn't think he would survive a trial—literally. He thought someone would kill him (either at the trial or in prison after he was convicted)."

Mr. Perham, who has said his son suffers from paranoid schizophrenia and has been in and out of mental institutions, described Jody's state of mind as being improved this week. "When he came out of the woods he seemed as well off as when he went in. It seems the fresh air may have done him good."

The younger Mr. Perham faces possible prison terms of 20 years for each of the two counts of attempted murder, plus additional terms on the other charges. The attempted murder charges stem from his alleged knife attack on Beatrice Lang and John Malloux at Mrs. Lang's home in the early morning hours of July 6.

While awaiting the action of the grand jury, Mr. Perham escaped from the exercise yard of the county jail Sept. 22. As a result, three corrections officials were disciplined and changes were made in the yard and along the fence over which he jumped.

Tipping fees at the incinerator vary from $8.50 to $10 per ton, which is what the Greenstock transfer station pays. Some towns, however, have contracts that are based on a ceiling of $15 per ton.

Auburn City Manager "Chip" Morrison told The Citizen he wants to get the 20 towns that use the incinerator all paying the same fee.

Romeo Baker and Jo have returned from their extended vacation to Alaska. It's nice to have you both back.

A strong attendance response to our first Ladies Night Social and Meeting from our members and members of the Rumford and Oxford Hills clubs should insure a most enjoyable evening for all. This event is scheduled for Oct. 29 and will be held at The Bethel Inn.

The next fundraiser planned by the Bethel Club is a Pancake Breakfast to be served at the Gould Academy dining room on Nov. 30. The continued support of our local friends is solicited.

The program chairman for the meeting was Rick Whitney and his guest speaker was State Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel). Mr. Mills spoke about the importance of having an active Chamber of Commerce and referenced the Rangeley group as an example of this. He also talked about legislative measures that he has supported this past year, such as road repairs, the worker's comp reform, and other matters. Questions asked by members were answered clearly and everyone's satisfaction. It was a very enjoyable program.

FOUR GENERATIONS: This all-male four-generation group includes Richard Angevine Jr. (seated), stationed with the U.S. Air Force in Germany, holding his son, Craig Derek. Standing are Craig's grandfather, Richard Angevine Sr., and his great grandfather, Ernest Angevine, both of Northwest Bethel.

How the colors have changed in the last week. They are really pretty now, or at least the ones that Hurricane Gloria didn't blow off. My trip to Sugarloaf Mountain with my daughter this past Friday and Saturday showed the real spectacular colors on the mountains. It would have been such a beautiful trip if the rain hadn't spoiled it for us. Courtney and I had hoped to get outside as she is always saying, and couldn't because of the weather. We left Wynona's home about six o'clock Friday morning and up Route 4 to Farmington where we took Route 27 to the Sugarloaf Recreation Area.

It was misting but not raining hard when we left but getting behind some big trucks made it miserable for Wynona to drive. It was hard to see as one had to use lights and at that time in the morning, it is hard to drive anyway at this time of year. However, we got past the big trucks and it was better, then. As it got lighter, we were impressed with the foliage along the way with its many colors and above Farmington, along the river, it was a sight for anyone to see. We got to Sugarloaf in about two hours of driving and had to stop a couple of times along the way.

We stayed in a studio room which was equipped with a stove, dishwasher, sink, cupboards and dishes for cooking and eating and of course, a refrigerator. It would have been nice but the floor didn't look as if it had been vacuumed for quite some time and we didn't want to lay the baby down on it. Also the bed-couch sagged in the middle. When we went to bed that night, Bonnie kept rolling toward the center and so I did I so we finally ended up putting a pillow between us to keep from rolling into one another.

The climax of the trip came when Bonnie found her suitcase hadn't been packed into the car and we had to make a fast trip back to Farmington Friday afternoon, to get her some necessities for the stay. She had left the packing to her husband and thought he had put the suitcase in and he had seen it and thinking it empty, had set it aside instead of packing it into the car. It took Bonnie away from a meeting she had planned to go to at the Seminar, so it was too bad she had to make the trip back. Courtney was the most disappointed. She had said over, and over, "outside." She loves to go outside and we had planned to go out and take a walk, at least, but it didn't happen that way, so she was disappointed. They finally brought a play pen for the baby to have to lay in and we put the pad on the floor and she was happy and played good. She is such a happy go lucky baby and so good to tend to.

The seminar didn't end until about 12:30, but as we had to be out of the room and ready and ready for them to clean up Wynona skipped part of the meeting and we left at 11 in the forenoon. It was raining hard and not a very pleasant drive but stopped at Jay for a bite to eat and then home to Bonnie's house. They brought me home on Sunday as we were much to tired to do so Saturday and Mike didn't get out of work too early.

Got home to find that Russell had been canning. We had already canned some of the beets and he had pulled and canned the rest of them; also the carrots and some tomatoes. We were afraid of frost Sunday and Monday nights, so he picked shell beans, though they weren't as ripe as we wished, and we shelled them and put them in the freezer. He didn't think we would get any of the late cauliflower he planted, but if Mother Nature is good, we will have some to put in the freezer after all. We have had more to put up than we had expected and that is good. The dahlias are still pretty as I look out the window. Some got more wind

The Zeta Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma met with Lettie Brooks at her farm on Curtis Hill Oct. 5. This was a regular meeting for the Society. There were 27 present. A dinner was served by the committee. Plans were discussed and planned for the state conference which will be held in April.

Several attended the Fryeburg Fair on different days the past week.

I attended South Paris Grange on Saturday. This was their first day meeting and was lecturer's day. Many state officers and deputies were present.

Thursday night I attended West Paris Grange and showed slides of the Gaspé. The leaves have been beautiful in many places this week. These good days are just right for a tour around Oxford County.

Edith Hodges from Orlando, Fla., arrived Sunday to visit Esther Davis for awhile.

Esther Davis, Edith Hodges, and Olive Davis took a ride to Upton to view the foliage. They found better color near Umbagog Lake. The days being half as clear didn't show up the colors very well. Esther and Edith went to Livermore Wednesday to have dinner with Esther's sister, Marion Whittemore.

From the hurricane than they should have and aren't blooming as they were, but we have been very lucky not to have gotten a frost as so many have.

I have to do a little bragging as I won some prizes from Grange contests and feel pretty proud of it. I got a blue ribbon on a poem I sent in and a red ribbon on "A Complete Program" contest. Also, got an achievement award and an award paper from National Grange for the ribbon on "The Complete Program" contest. To me, that is an honor and I feel Mother would be glad for me if she were here to know of my accomplishments. No money involved, but just the idea that my writing and imagination has given me some prizes makes me happy.

Have a lot of things waiting for me to get done so guess I better get after them. I see Russell has gone outside to work what we can and that is what he likes to do best.

I would like to ask a question? How many of you women ever make zucchini casseroles? They are delicious and not fattening, unless you want to make them so. We have had a lot of them this summer and I haven't gained from eating them, so guess you wouldn't either. Sauté sliced medium or small zucchini in a fry pan with about two tablespoons of margarine with a small onion or some dried onion until they are soft. Add half a can of mushroom soup or tomato soup, a third to two thirds of a cup of diced cheese and let it melt. I also add something for meat, such as ground up hot dogs, hamburger or ham or whatever I have on hand, add a few vegetables and when the cheese is all melted and the mixture well mixed, I put it in a casserole dish, top it with bread cubes or corn flake crumbs and bake it about half an hour and you have a delicious dish to serve. I have even used the chop suey vegetables, draining most of the liquid before adding them, and it is good with them instead of other vegetables. Russell says it is good any way I have fixed it. I found them good last year so made the most of my findings this year. Try it some time. I don't add salt and pepper as we don't use them but anyone can add spices to taste. Just thought I'd let you in on the secret of the goodies we have enjoyed so much. Have a good week and I'll see what happens between now and then.

GERALD NESSMAN, an exchange student from Austria, has adjusted well to life at Telstar Regional High School. Here, he compares notes with classmate Michelle Cummings.

Austrian student goes abroad — to Bryant Pond

It was not just the thought of going to the United States that excited 16-year-old Gerald Nessman. It was also the idea of going on an airplane.

In his hometown of Feldkirchen, Austria—a town of 10,000 people—Gerald did not get to see much of the world. But he wanted to. And so one day he went home from school and told his mother: "Mom, I'm going to the U.S."

With the help of the AFS exchange student program, Gerald's dream to see the U.S. became reality. Gerald is a senior at Telstar Regional High School this year and living with the Robert Hand family, in Bryant Pond.

So how does he like it? "I enjoy it. I really enjoy it," he says.

That goes for the family he's living with, the school he's attending, and even the food he's eating.

There are difficulties to be overcome, of course. "The Maine dialect is a little different," he says, in perfect English, touched with a slight Austrian accent.

Although he enjoys being with Americans, the differences are also there. "We are not that much outgoing as people here," he says.

School, on the other hand, he seems to have no difficulty with at all, except for some minor comprehension problems caused by having to deal all day in, what is for him, a foreign language.

"I think school here is not as difficult as in Austria," he maintains. In his hometown he was only a junior, but here he was enrolled as a senior. His favorite courses at Telstar are Public Issues and Computers.

Not only are the academics less rigorous than in the Austrian system, but the hours are fewer, as well. "We have school on Saturday in Austria," he notes.

Not that he misses having to devote Saturday to the books. On the contrary. "I enjoy going to school here, because it's not that difficult."

In Feldkirchen, which means "church in the field," he lives with his parents, his grandfather, and a 13-year-old brother. His father is a building contractor. His mother, who used to be a seamstress, now manages the home.

In Bryant Pond, in addition to his host parents, he has two younger host brothers and one host brother with whom he goes to Telstar—Dan Hammer.

Saturday was a very rainy day. Frank and Ira went to Wilton in the rain as not much to do around the house and yard. George went down to Freeport and spent the weekend with Jim, Sue, and Heather. Sunday was a beautiful day, and Monday evening turned out cool and frosty. Tuesday and Wednesday were nice. Wednesday I went to South Paris to visit the folks, Mr. and Mrs. George Allen. My sister, Marion Tucker, of Readfield, was also there. I left early as Marion was going to the doctor as both folks had appointments. Today, Thursday, has been such a beautiful day that I have had my doors open.

The 5th was the wedding of Melinda Mason, daughter of Ruth and Charles Mason, to Matthew Bishop, at the Nazarene Church, and after there was a sit-down dinner and reception at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills. Melinda's sister, Terry Mason Blake of Augusta was matron of honor, and sister Carole Wight, bridesmaid. Not sure who stood up with the groom. Attending from our road were her uncle and wife, Frank and Sid Murphy; cousin, Debbie Seames and three children, who also made the wedding cake; aunt and husband, Joyce and Bob Stearns, and of course parents, Ruth and Charles. Neighbors from the road, Elaine Hutchins and two girls; Dick, Sue, Kristy Angevine, Frank and Sylvia Benson; Ernest and Alberta Angevine had their nephew Keith, Sharon and Jessica Holt call on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Andre and children had as weekend guests his brother and wife, Manny and Joyce and children, Beth and Julie. Both families went to the fair Saturday. Tuesday night, Mrs. Andre's brother, Terry Gunn of Florida, came and stayed until Thursday. They went to see their niece's field hockey team play at Telstar.

Ernest and Alberta Angevine, Ruth and Lester Butters, went for a foliage ride to Upton and East B Hill.

Sid Murphy's brother, Paul Greenberg and family, came Saturday and spent the night. Sunday, Frank, Sid, and the Greenbergs went to Fryeburg Fair. As the Greenbergs are from Dracut, Mass., they went home from Fryeburg.

They got in a lot later Saturday than they intended to as the roads were so congested with foliage traffic. They spent Saturday night at a motel in West Bethel and left on Sunday.

Albert Skillings took Myrtle Lapham to his farm Sunday. The view was spectacular on the hill. Albert also had two daughters visiting so Myrtle had a chance to visit with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lapham are having their house painted.

Becky Shaw attended some of the festivities at Gould Academy and Jolene Shimamura took care of Jon and Jeni. Becky's uncle, Jerry Davis and wife, Alice, of Cheshire, Mass., came as he was a track captain when Joe Roderick was coach. Becky was very pleased with the ceremonies honoring Joe Roderick. The next day the Shaws babysat Benjamin Shimamura as Jody and Jolene went to a Portland hospital to see Kevin VanDeursen, who was very badly injured when a CMVTV bus overturned returning from a sports activity.

Evelyn Hilborn returned home recently after attending her cousin, Evelyn Brownlie, in a hospital in Toronto. Mrs. Brownlie died and Evelyn had charge of funeral and other arrangements.

Part of Evelyn's large maple came down during Hurricane Gloria. Many thanks to the Steve Anderson family for getting rid of the branches and large limb.

Sunday Frances Farnum and Evelyn had lunch in South Paris, then took a scenic ride, returning through Evans Notch.

Wednesday, Evelyn, Frances Farnum, Louvie Coffin, went to Auburn, having lunch first in Oxford.

The following poem was written by Alberta Angevine's late mother, Rena Abbott, when she returned from a ride with Mary Angevine. Mrs. Abbott was almost 90 years old.

An October Day
What can be more beautiful
Than our October days
When the hillsides and the valleys
With bright colors are ablaze.
On this crisp autumnal morning
Come, let us take a ride
From the little town of Bethel
Up the Andruscoggin side.
Vivid colors of the rainbow
Red, orange, yellow, green
On the New Hampshire Mountains
Are reflected in the stream.
The sun is warm and shining,
The air is clear and clean
At each bend of the highway
New vistas can be seen.
We take the winding journey
Round the mountains tall and steep
And down the many notches
Like canyons long and deep.
The scarlet of the maples
So seen on every hand.
The gaily-tinted landscapes
Have no equal in the land.
We gaze about in pure delight
At each new scene of splendor.
And when winter keeps us housebound
We'll have these to remember
And in the early evening
As we take our homes and way,
We thank our Heavenly Father
For the beauty of this day.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank the many relatives, friends and neighbors for all the acts of kindness extended to us during our recent bereavement. Our heartfelt thanks to each of you.

By COLISTA MORGAN

One morning recently I was awakened early by Who? Who-oo? Who? Who? the voiced asked. Who indeed? An owl, just outside my window. He repeated Who? Who-oo? then flapped away, where his hooting boomed from across the pond.

A golden dawn seemed to have thrown its yellow light into the bright blue of a glorious day. The trees appeared more brilliant than yesterday, as the light streamed through them. How gorgeous! It is hard to believe that in a very short time those same leaves will lose their autumn fire and lie upon the ground.

I went out that day to enjoy them. Yellow sunshine was buttering the hillside.

I climbed through the pastures bars, where in past years I rolled under. (I could hear little Mary say, "Roll under, Aunt Clis").

As I neared the height of land I could understand what makes a returning New Englander draw breath quickly; the pleasure is so poignant: boulders strewn about the pastures, land dotted with clumps of ferns, thick about the rocks, clumps of evergreens, and the mountains dressed in their brightest colors.

I walked onward through the open landscape absorbed by new pictures and by thoughts fast succeeding each other. Always at this time in October I take this walk to the hill-top where I sit and think of a special day and of Stanley Foss Bartlett's

"There's a whisper in the woodland
There's a murmur in the brake
There's a scud of gypsy maple
Dancing by the mirror lake."

From the south a warm current of air folded leisurely into the valley and rode upward to find me as I sat on Lake-rock. A bumble-bee blundered in enjoying one of his last outings of autumn.

The cattle rested just down the hill. Wide-spreading maples edged the woods. The display of color must delight even the stolid human eye. The people who once lived on these high farms preserved Great Heritage of plain living and high thinking.

I left for home in a ray of sunlight sitting through leaves adding a touch of gold, while the crickets chirped a farewell.

Two year old Mary Holt came to the farm for another visit. Her first question, "See call?"

When that was no longer new she tried to interest someone in going to "See cows?" No interest so —what next? "Where's Aunt Clis?"

There is nothing quite as special as strolling down a country lane at this time of year, experiencing a new dimension not available to the "leaf lookers" using motorized transportation. Ahead of you as the road curves, like a broad ecru ribbon, stone paved and dusty, a partridge, startled, whirs its wings, and you observe closely the spot where she had been leisurely taking a "dust bath," in the warm rays of the afternoon sun. Although the colors are fast fading and muted, the ditches at the roadside are laden with multicolored drying leaves, that if you so choose to wade in them, come ankle deep to rustle against your legs. Coming to rest, in other spots, as the fall winds blow them about, they settle, to provide shelter for all the tiny plants that need a cozy warm blanket to cover them from the rains and frosts that are sure to come. Life slows down to a steady pace, and your problems seem to re-arrange themselves automatically into a new perspective, one that seems easier to cope with, and less difficult to solve.

Further along, a tiny chipmunk scampers across your path, and seeks to hide himself among the limbs of a scantily boughed evergreen, where he feels you are not apt to see him. As you approach his sanctuary, you must note that his little heart is beating furiously within that small chest cavity, as he peers at you with his beady black eyes, chattering nervously. Overhead, and in the distance, jays and crows warn of your coming, and deep within the forest the chickadees' cheery greeting seems to comfort the rest of the animal kingdom, that you are not to be feared. He in all his cheerfulness will be the first one to greet us at the window's ledge, as the first snowflakes start to appear, ultimately as they must. So enjoy this season's beauty to its utmost and marvel at the wisdom of the Great Creator, who planned all of this for his children mankind, so many eons ago. God bless and peace, everyone.

Elaine Packard of Bethel was a Saturday evening dinner guest of my husband and I recently. Her walnut cake stole the show, and I must admit I enjoyed the forbidden morsel down to the last lovely crunch.

Mary Cole has been working at the Sunset Apartments in Berlin, with her friend, Josie Greenwood of Shelburne, papering and painting there.

Emeline Heath and Mildred McLain enjoyed attending the Gould homecoming days in Bethel last weekend.

Anita Ferrand with her daughter "Bobby," Beverly and grandson, Larry took the Mount Washington coach to the top of the rockpile one day last week. While sunny in the valley, Nita reports the top of the rockpile was coated with several inches of rime frost. A couple places close to the top had started to melt and were muddy and slick, and private cars noted venturing downward on the descent, had drivers that seemed to be "frozen" to their wheels. An adventure close to home, if you'd like one—climb the rockpile.

Anna Belanger and daughter from Berlin, enjoyed a day last week "picking your own apples," at a local orchard.

Doris Hayes is visiting her sisters in Falmouth for a few days. On Saturday Glenn of Gray and Duane of West Paris were at the Homestead.

I attended the Delta Kappa Gamma meeting Oct. 5 at the Day Homestead on Curtis Hill. Twenty nine members came in spite of the rain.

Leonas and Fay Holt, Clyde and I enjoyed dinner and the evening with John and Dot Betts at their home on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis were in Brunswick on Sunday to visit her brother.

Eva Felton and Kathy Curtis called on Fred and Rena Curtis.

Louise DiArenzo, Pennsylvania, has been visiting her parents, Pat and Zilpha DiArenzo, for a few days.

The foliage is still beautiful although leaves are flying about and peppering the roadsides. The yellows have become predominant.

The Bergerons have installed a door bell.

Bethel

Kevin Van Deursen, formerly of Bethel, and grandson of Mrs. Mary Corkum of Sudbury Village, is a patient in the intensive care unit at Maine Medical Center in Portland, following a car accident. Kevin has shown some small improvement. The prayer circle members of Our Lady of the Snows Church have been given Kevin's name at the request of Mrs. Corkum.

JoAnn Griffin of Columbus, Ga., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Bane have just returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. James McLaughlin and family in Epping, N.H.

Dot Bean has moved into her new home at Leona Flint's rent.

Last week I reported that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lord visited with their daughter Cheryl Lord over the weekend. I goofed! Cheryl's parents visited her this past weekend. Sorry, my friend. . . Some days you just can't win for losin'.

Visited the cablevision office recently. It's getting closer all the time. . . I wonder what Tom Selleck looks like without squiggles all over his face?

The Elm Street side of Gould Academy is ablaze with colors now. The lawn is covered with a beautiful blanket of red, golds, and oranges. It's a perfect place for young ones to roll in the leaves. And speaking of foliage, Diane Saunders tells me that visitors to her shop and information center say they have never seen the foliage so beautiful and breathtaking. Grafton Notch is especially inspiring this year.

Casco Bank employees enjoyed a dinner at the Madison Restaurant in Rumford recently. It was a "thank you for putting in the extra time and effort" getting the new computer system in and working. I watched a lot of the "getting started" and I think everyone did a great job and I'm glad to see the tellers are no longer looking weary and frustrated. There is nothing like a new computer system for wearing down one's enthusiasm. . . Now everyone down there has to out up with hammering and dust everywhere while offices are being moved, walls knocked down, etc. No rest for the weary lately.

There are some folks who away for the winter. There are others who leave an "empty place in your heart" when they depart, even though you know they'll be back in the spring. A lady of whom I'm very fond (we tease each other mercilessly!) has just done that. She's barely gone and I miss her. Tuesdays won't be the same without her and our dog Maggie will miss the tidbits from our friend's lunch. We wish her a good time away from us with "hurry home drops" in our eyes. See you in the spring, dear friends.

Franklin Grange met on Monday, Oct. 7 with 25 members present. Ernestine Riley was presented a $50 savings bond from Blumenthal Buttons for the use of La Chic buttons on the dress she made for the National Grange Sewing Contest. Voted to have two meetings in November and to have Nov. 4 for a patriotic meeting. Voted to send Olive Davis to State Grange. Program on "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"; Story of Columbus' life with many taking part; Poem, "The Man in the Glass," Paul Billings; Game; Ernestine told about Springfield Fair; Closing thought, Olive Davis; Next meeting, "Halloween Party." Quotes from the "Old Farmer's Almanac," Larry Billings.

Alan Hathaway has been visiting with his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway.

Franklin Grange will meet on Monday, Oct. 21, for a regular meeting and Halloween party. Time, 7:30.

Jaime did not like her bowl, spoon, glass, cereal, chair. I don't think she liked mommy very much either. Especially after she found herself back in bed without breakfast. Five minutes later I climbed the stairs at Jaime's request. I walked into the room and heard "Hi, Mommy!" We were all smiles and hugs and kisses as Mommy tried to shift gears from angry to "aren't you a cute little kid?" No wonder Mom's spirits are dragging when Dad shows up at dinner and says, "And how was your day, dear?" Sorta makes you want to run away from home. . . The way my luck runs, I'd run away, turn on the radio and there would be Larry singing "Runaway, Go Home." Hang in there Mom, she'll be 21 before you know it. . . with a whole new set of problems. . . Oh well, no one ever said life was easy—or fair.

Thought for the week: Be Immortal. If you could look into the eyes of future generations, you would be there. Because immortality lies not in the things you leave behind, but in the people your life has touched, for good or bad.—Unknown.

I came home Wednesday afternoon after spending the last six weeks with my daughter and family at The Cape in Otisfield. She has recovered from surgery and is feeling back to normal again. A big "Hooray" from everyone when the electric power was finally restored after Gloria's passing through. Four days of kerosene lamps and wood stove cooking were a bit much.

To catch up on some of the local happenings now.

Notes from Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a glimpse of Irish society of a century ago:

"This room was furnished with an elegance that surprised one. There was such pretty new French furniture, such delicacy of petit point on the covers, such a profusion of gilded mirrors. There were flowers, too, beautifully arranged in china bowls—tulips and wallflowers, and great sprays of purple-bellied fuchsias and laburnum. The charm of it was as reassuring as the fires in the room."

"There was also the Marchioness... Her face was sweetly heart-shaped, with high cheek bones and a small straight nose. Her hair was glossy black, swept up at the sides to expose dainty ears from which dropped ruby and diamond earrings, and cascading from a high coil at the back. Her complexion was impeccable, pink and cream. She had little white hands, and the freckled struck darting flame from the stones in her rings. Her dress was of dark brown silk, with the skirt draped up to show an apple-green lining and an undershirt of pale coppery silk, trimmed with white lace at neck and sleeves and hemline. It had a dark brown bow at the back and she wore an apple-green bow in her hair. The slenderness of her wrist looked frail under the massive weight of an intricately designed gold bracelet."—Hilary Ford

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

An open house is scheduled for tonight, Oct. 16. Parents are invited to the school from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. to meet new and old staff, visit a child's classroom to learn about classroom programs and to take a tour of the school to view the new changes. This is not a time for individual conferences, but appointments can be made if either the parent or teacher wishes.

Several projects are well underway. Student-made books are filling a library shelf, thanks to the help of our volunteers. This goes with our writing program and is a grand way of publishing. Gene Plaherty, grade 5, has even attempted a Pick-a-Path story. Grade 5 students are currently working on a classroom newspaper using a computer, and again, our hardworking volunteers.

Plans are being made for the annual Halloween parade to be held Oct. 31. The whole school will be in costume and will follow the usual route from the school to Pioneer Street, up by the Legion Memorial School and back to Agnes Gray. Friends and parents should plan to be on hand to watch.

Pictures have been taken of each class for the annual Christmas card memento-keepsake. Saving these through the years, along with a few school papers, journals, etc., will bring back many pleasant memories.

NOVA OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY
The NOVA Forestry Program invites all interested persons to an open house Saturday, Oct. 19, from 9:30 a.m. to noon, at the Raymond C. Foster Municipal Building in Newry.

This open house will give people a chance to view the facilities and equipment available to local students who attend this program. It will also afford a

It's that time of year when your local Rotary Club must start gathering items for our annual auction. The proceeds of all of our efforts go to support such projects as the Senior Citizen Xmas Dinner, Xmas Food Baskets for the needy, student scholarships, support of the local health facilities, summer camp tuitions, area athletes expenses, disabled individuals needs, etc. If you're cleaning the garage, attic, or cellar, let us get rid of those unneeded items for you. Joe Kalinowski, Rhoda Vatcher and Doris Lawrence went to West Sumner Wednesday with the West Paris Senior Citizens for a New England "boiled" dinner and assorted pies. Frank Pratt entertained and it was an enjoyable afternoon.

Joe and Norma Reidy, Tyngsboro, Mass., came to their trailer Saturday evening and attended Fryeburg Fair, Sunday. They also called on Joe and Eveline Vatcher.

Callers at Lawrences: Clyde Knights came and put a new element in the hot water heater; Joe Kalinowski; Amol Coffin; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher; Corey Bonney; Barbara Knightly; Maggie Stevens; Odell Heath; Pete and Polly Lawrence; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher went to Danvers, Mass., Wednesday to see Joe's mother. They also visited his sister, Mrs. Fannie Whitten of Swampscott, Mass., and took her apples, squash and pumpkins and a roast of beef, all home grown. These are the best kind.

Joe Vatcher has bagged two rabbits, one partridge and two skunks this week. Soup anyone!

Citizen's antique press to be moved Saturday

A bit of Bethel history will leave Bethel this Saturday when The Citizen's antique Miehle newspaper press is removed from the building and shipped to a print shop in Massachusetts.

With a new job press on order and no place to set it up, officials of Citizen Press, Inc., offered to give the old newspaper press, whose patents date to 1895, to a printer in Massachusetts who has room to store it. The printer, Don Kent, of Rowley Printing, offered to take the press when he was told that it might otherwise have to be broken up for scrap. Citizen Press officials had spent months trying to find a home for the old press, which had reliably printed The Citizen from November of 1956 up until March 1985. The Bethel Historical Society, the state museum in Augusta, the Smithsonian Institution, print museums in Vermont, Massachusetts and Maryland were all contacted. All expressed interest in the antique but said they had no place to store the seven ton press.

The press will go out of the Cole Block the same way it came in, by removing a portion of the back wall. Peter and George Haines will remove the wall Saturday morning, and Buster Gaudreau will rig the press out into the parking lot and up onto Mr. Kent's truck. Frank Lowell will have his forklift on the scene to help move the old press out and the new one in.

On Friday, the day before the wall is opened, Mr. Gaudreau will travel to Milo to pick up the new 2½-ton press being purchased by Citizen Press.

The new press—actually a used press—had belonged to the University Press at UMO. Coupled with a large folding machine being purchased from Mr. Kent's Rowley Printing, Citizen Press officials expect to utilize the new press and folder for the efficient printing of town reports.

The two pieces of equipment are being financed with a private loan, Citizen Press officials said. They invited anyone interested in seeing the old newspaper press being moved out to come to the office Saturday.

CANDIDATES WANTED FOR CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Nominating petitions are ready for interested persons wishing to run for the office of supervisor for the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District. Anyone who is a cooper in the district may be a candidate in the November election, providing he submits a nominating petition with at least 10 signatures of other District Cooperators on that petition.

The persons winning the election will serve three-year terms as supervisors of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District. District supervisors serve in a voluntary capacity.

The Soil and Water Conservation District, organized under Maine State

MSAD #44 Directors' meeting

The SAD #44 Board of Directors met in regular session at the Woodstock Elementary School on Monday evening of this week.

Mrs. Frances R. Lodge of Hebron was approved as a teacher of business education at Telstar Regional High School for the balance of the 1985-86 school year. Any action regarding the appointment of drama coaches was tabled until the Oct. 28 meeting of the directors.

Equivalent instruction programs were approved for Toji Perlman, Moss McCole and Cora Whitney-Gallagher, all from the Woodstock area. The directors authorized an ad hoc committee of three board members, appointed by Darline Hall, board chairman, to formulate board goals for 1985-86. These goals are to be presented for board action at a November meeting. The committee consists of Eva C. Twitchell and Paul Hillquist of Woodstock, and Stanley Howe of Bethel.

The resignation of Alice Stevens as a food services employee was accepted. Phyllis Blake was approved as a food services employee. Donald Hoyt was approved as soccer coach at Woodstock Elementary School.

Approved as substitute teachers were: Cynthia Blake, Dennis J. Cook, and Deborah L. Grant, all of Bethel; Sharon Higgins, Locke Mills; and Monica Mann, Bryant Pond. Marcia Monk of Bryant Pond was approved as a substitute secretary.

Termination of school attendance was approved for two 17-year-old Telstar students, one a sophomore and the other a senior.

Following an executive session the directors approved the suspension of 17-year-old Telstar freshman until Jan. 27, 1986. The student is to undergo evaluative procedures and to avail himself of the opportunity to obtain homework assignments during the interim. The student is to appear before the board on Jan. 13 for review of the evaluation and homework assignment status.

Board members not present Monday evening were: John Foster, Andover; Al Barth, Bethel; Rick McVey, Newry; and Sheryl Wilbur, Woodstock.

The next regular board meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 28, at 7:30 in the library at Telstar Regional High School.

Law, is a legal subdivision of the state, set up to help landowners solve their problems of soil and water conservation. With today's great concern about good quality environment, it is hoped many interested citizens would be willing to donate time as a district supervisor.

Anyone wishing more information about the post and duties may stop in at the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District office, 1 Main St., South Paris. Petitions must be returned to the district office by Oct. 22.

Andover students walk to raise money for arts

Pupils at the Andover Elementary School will be participating in a walk-a-thon on the school grounds Oct. 18. Money raised from this activity will be used to bring talented groups from the arts and humanities to the town during the school year. Both pupils and community residents will have the opportunity to enjoy these performances.

The pupils in each grade bringing in the most money will receive a gift certificate redeemable at the Book Fair coming Oct. 30. Those bringing in $25 or more by Oct. 30 will be granted a very special favor.

School officials encourage the public to support the walk-a-thon in order to bring high-quality performances to Andover.

MS Read-a-thon coming to W. Paris

The MS Read-a-thon is coming to the public library at West Paris.

Oxford County elementary students can register and pick up kits for the project at the library between today and Oct. 31.

Children in the read-a-thon earn money, from sponsors, for the fight against MS, and, at the same time, they get to read good books.

Students participating in the Read-a-thon can win prizes, such as a Commodore 64 home computer, a 10-speed bicycle, an FM Walkman, ski hats and more. The top readers in the state will be invited to a special awards banquet with Read-a-thon Honorary Chairwoman Joan Benoit, in January.

Adults can help too, either by sponsoring a child or by encouraging their children to read. For more information, call the MS Society, at 761-5815.

THE NEW KRESGE BUILDING AT THE L.L. BEAN CENTER at Outward Bound, in Newry, has been completed, but dedication ceremonies, which were planned for the weekend of Hurricane Gloria, have been postponed. The center was built by D.C. King Construction.

Outward Bound center completed; dedication put on hold by storm

The newly completed Kresge Building at Outward Bound's Leon L. Bean Mountain Center, in Newry, was to be dedicated the weekend Hurricane Gloria blew over the area. But plans have now been set back, possibly till spring.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony was to have been presided over by Leon A. Gorman, president of L.L. Bean, Inc.

The Kresge Building, designed and constructed by D.C. King Co., Inc., of York, with architectural consultation from the firm of Richard S. Morehouse, Inc., of Lexington, Mass., consists of a large barn and attached cape, a tasteful combination of traditional and modern design and construction. It is the logistical and administrative base for both winter and summer land courses, which use the surrounding streams, trails and forests of the Mahoosuc Mountains for a wide range of activities, including hiking, climbing, canoeing, wilderness camping and back-country travel.

A leader in wilderness-based experiential education, the Hurricane Island Outward Bound School has grown, since it

INSULATION IS TOPIC AT ADULT ED SESSION THURSDAY

Super Insulation and Building Construction will be the topic of a special program set for Thursday, Oct. 17, at Telstar High School, in Bethel.

Tim Vrabie, of the Energy Extension Service, will present a free program at 7 p.m. covering the topic of super-insulated buildings.

This program is co-sponsored by the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program, and those planning to attend are asked to call the office, 824-2780, so that the level of enrollment may be anticipated.

first offered sea programs to young men in 1964, to an institution that offered 65 different courses to over 3,700 people last year—the school's 20th year of operation.

Thanks to the generous support of L.L. Bean, Inc., the Kresge Foundation, the Betterment Fund and other friends of the school, the Mountain Center and its Kresge Building have expanded the school's ability to operate land courses and initiate new programs for students whose ages range from 14 to 72: men, women and young people from diverse backgrounds.

By PAULINE SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. John Benker of Groton, Conn., visited at the Lemays and Leroy Smiths this week. They used to live at Cushman Pond in years past.

The rummage sale at the United Church of Christ was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Brad Crosby and Leroy and Pauline Smith had dinner at the Don Gregsons Thursday evening.

Twenty-some attended the potluck supper at the East Stoneham fire barn for the Knight Riders snowmobile club Tuesday evening.

Edith Holt visited here in Slab City Friday.

Charles and Arlene Merrill had dinner at the Brad Crosbys, Cushman Pond, this week.

Sorry to hear Brad Morrison is back in the hospital.

Pauline and Roy Smith took a trip to Errol, N.H., Wednesday. Coloring was very good. We had breakfast out and lunch. Nice to see old friends again.

Our sympathy is with David Smith in the loss of his wife, Sarah. Services at the Village Church, Friday.

Tri-Town Rescue

Tri-Town successfully conducted a joint mock school bus-car accident at the mud run Sunday. The weather cooperated and participants from six area ambulances participated in the drill. The drill had 31 patients, one pretending to be dead and one birth during the drill. By connecting these larger training exercises, the services learn better how to work together, and hopefully be better prepared if a real situation occurs.

Tri-Town Auxiliary is planning a dance at the Locke Mills Legion Hall Saturday, Oct. 19, from 8:30 to 12:30. Silver Wings is providing the music. Refreshments will be available.

The ambulance is demonstrating first aid skills for parents, Oct. 24, at the Woodstock Elementary School as part of the adult education parenting project. Any interested community members can see the demonstrations at 7 p.m.

The auxiliary is planning a Thanksgiving basket raffle for the end of November. For more information, call any Tri-Town member.

Safety Tip of the Week

October is chimney cleaning month, part of National Fire Prevention Week. Greenwood fire department will clean any of the chimneys of residents of the town, for a donation to the department. They feel this greatly reduces the number of chimney fires the department has to fight during the cold weather approaching.

Other towns should check with their local fire departments to get their chimney cleaned at least once a year, and better once every six months. West Paris residents can borrow a chimney cleaning chain from the department to do the job themselves.

Remember, it is easier to have the chimney cleaned now than to risk damage to your house and your possessions with a chimney fire.

LOCAL PHYSICS TEACHERS PRESENT PROGRAMS AT CONVENTION

Tom Ford of Gould Academy and Tim Kersey of Telstar Regional High School presented programs at the Maine Science Teacher Association Convention held at Skowhegan High School this past Friday.

Mr. Ford made two presentations relating to classroom use of computers: "Interfacing to the Apple Game Port." Mr. Kersey gave several demonstrations on the use of LASERS, plus a session entitled "Have You Ever So Had So Much Fun?"—plus some innovative techniques in the teaching of science.

SAUNDERS - McKEACHIE

Linda McKeachie, of Bethel, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert McKeachie, of Dexter, Mich., and Robert Saunders, of Bethel, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Saunders, of Bethel, were wed July 7 at the Sunday River covered bridge. Rev. Tom Caton conducted the ceremony. Music was by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert McKeachie and Karen McKeachie playing recorders.

The bride wore an ivory full-length gown featuring three-quarter length sleeves of crinkled cotton lace and carried a multi-colored bouquet.

The matron-of-honor was Patricia Cook, of Minnesota. The best man was Dennis McLeod, of Bethel. Erica Such, daughter of the bride, escorted her mother down the aisle.

The bride attended the University of Maine in Farmington, and Fort Lewis College, in Durango, Colo. She is employed at Hanover Dowel Co. in Bethel.

The groom is a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, in Troy, N.Y. He is employed at Hanover Dowel Co., in Bethel.

Following the wedding ceremony, the couple hosted a reception at The Bethel Inn. They then took a wedding trip on the Delta Queen, down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

TAP MEETING THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17

Parents of EBS and CPS children, don't forget to come to the TAP meeting in the Crescent Park School Library tomorrow, Thursday, Oct. 17, at 1:45. Babysitting will be provided.

CARD OF THANKS

The North Waterford Fire Department would like to thank Everett Hatstat for the 10 cords of firewood donated to the raffle which was won by Brand McAllister.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Elizabeth G. Wheeler who died Oct. 16, 1983

God saw you getting tired,
And a cure was not to be,
So He put His arms around you
And whispered, "Come to me."
With tearful eyes we saw
You fading fast away.
Although we loved you dearly
We could not make you stay.
A golden heart stopped beating,
Hard working hands to rest,
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the best.

Steer This Way By Win Carrick

One Florida driver was without a car for awhile last summer. Seems a sparrow built a nest in the open glove compartment of his auto — and then laid eggs. The car stayed in the driveway until they hatched.

Transmission fluid should be changed every 30,000 miles or so if you do any heavy-duty driving — and most of us do. Otherwise, fluid may last 100,000 miles, but it's smart to check it more often.

Car maker has developed a new safety windshield. It has an inside and outside glass; in between is a layer of energy-absorbing plastic.

Check your oil? In a recent auto survey, 39.7 percent of the cars were one OR MORE — quarts low on oil.

Did you know that white is the most popular color for trucks?

We are pleased to have Ray Harrington representing us in the Bethel area.

Trucks are fun to drive — that's why they've become popular personal vehicles.

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST

The Christian is a child of God. We must understand who we are, why—and how to pray. We were once children of wrath—helplessly lost in the quagmire of sin—degraded for eternity in the life to come. In ourselves, we have nothing to be proud of so far as our election as saints is concerned. At the heart we rob God of His glory. Our salvation is not of works, but of baptism by man—salvation is of the Lord—Jonah 2:9. Born of the Spirit—By the grace of God, I am what I am. I Cor. 15:10. When we knew our need of a Savior—Jesus Christ—we asked for God's forgiveness, and He forgave us—we became His child—and now, by prayer and Bible study we grow in grace. Our prayers are communion with God—by it we honor and worship Him—and, thereby, we are blessed. Yes, we pray without ceasing—no matter what—remembering that the Spirit talks on the ear and the heart alike. Our prayer—has a place in God's plan—there is nothing done by blind chance—we must acknowledge our complete dependency upon Him. He knows our every thought—we can pray for a lost soul even as we look into their eyes—there will be a happiness about us—even God's glory. Confess sins—and—the eternal fervent prayer of a righteous man avails much. James 5:16. Neglect not the gathering together, one with another—worshipping God in song, of praise—if my people would earnestly seek my face—I cannot imagine the blessings God would shower upon us. Be not ashamed of the Gospel of Jesus Christ—thou we are but a few—God is on our side—there are souls to be won—the victory is ours—let us always be in prayer—Lord teach us to pray—1 Peter 1:11.
